SO dear, in sooth, that henceforth I think
I will keep, if I can, my heart locked up,
And the world shall see, when I tip the brink,
No deeper down that mantling cup
Than bubbles wink!

But the rich red tide it shall not see; And the spells beneath but few shall share; While the jewels that star the bottom shall be Not for a world which does not care, But for them who love me !

For it always seems when I tell my thought
As though I lead flung it forever away,
And the charm wherewith the dream is fraught
When secret, dies with the fleeting lay
Into which it is wrought.

So, my butterfly thoughts their golden wings Shall rarely unfur! from their chrysalls; Thus I shall retain my love!test things. And the world, in its worldliness, shall not mis-What a neat sings. Whata poet sings.

THE CHARLESTON NEWS FOR 1873.

The general favor with which THE

CHARLESTON NEWS is regarded by the reading public of South Carolina and the adjacent States, has given it an unrivalled circulation throughout this section of the country. We are resolved that nothing shall be left undone in the future to keep it up to the highest standard of modern journalism; and in order to place our various editions within the reach of every Southern household, we will furnish the paper to clubs on very liberal terms. The friend: of THE NEWS everywhere are invited to assist us in extending its circulation. The following are our AMUSEMENTS IN MARION. [PEOM AN OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENT] CHARLESTON, January 15. As yours is emphatically a "live" paper, I doubt not you will consider me a genuine old fogy for seuding you now an account of what happened nearly two weeks ago, but even at the risk of having my letter tossed into the waste-paper basket I must tell you of a pleasure which is still vividly remembered. I should have done so earlier but for absence from home. I opine that the old prover!, "a rolling stone gathers no moss," is true in letter rather than spirit, for we peripatetics certainly pluck the flowers of pleasure sometimes, as was abundantly proven by my extimes, as was abundantly proven by my experience in Marion last week. Called to that primitive little town by business, and detained there all night, I followed the crowd to the courthouse, where I understood some public-spirited ladies and gentlemen were to hold a concert, &c., in furtherance of a charitable enterprise. I went solely because I had nothing else to do, and was astonished and delighted at the character of the entertainment. It opened with a performance from an amateur band, which I have rarely heard surpassed in taste and sweetness, and this was followed by a very beautiful tableau, representing an Eastern slave market. Surely the most fastidious Musselman allve might have filled his Harem from that group of dark-eyed Houris. Others followed, all more or less beautiful, alternating with uncommonly good vocal and instrumental music. I was particularly struck with a tenor voice among the singers, as being one of the richest and fullest I ever heard, and my experience in such matters is by no means a limited one. It seems ungracious to discriminate where all was so agreeable, but I must say that the finest Lever saw, represented an incident in the early life of Peter the Great. The most prominent figure was his mother, a beautiful weman, crowned and jewelled, who steed before an altar in an attitude of wonderful grace and dignity. I know that South Carolina ladies are all born queens, but I consider this Czarina the finest specimen of "the blood royal" I have ever seen. Not being familiar with details of even republican toilettes, I shall certainly not attempt to describe a queen's; suffice it to say she was dazzling! perience in Marion last week. Called to that royal" I have ever seen. Not being familiar with details of even republican toilettes, I shall certainly not attempt to describe a queen's; suffice it to say she was dazzling! Old as I am I envied the soldlers at her teet, who, even in mimic foray, had died for so fair and gracious a sovereign. They, as well the living soldiers, were in positions, and wore expressions that coold not have been improved; and as for Peter, I venture to say the fierce old carpenter never looked half as much like a prince as the gallant little fellow who represented him that evening. I will not intrude upon your space so far as to describe all I enjoyed that evening, much as I would like to dilate upon a poetic idea, beautifully carried out in a scene illustrating the purity and power of Christianity; some fine scenes from the well-known story of "Blue Beard;" a fine comic scene—"Walking on the wall;" and a game of chees, which was finely acted. I did not learn the name of the handsome young fellow who was checkmated, but he does not look as though his role in life would be a losing one. The performances ended with a charade, illustrating the strong-minded tendencies of our Northern sisters, the principal part of which was supported by a gentleman who would be a capital comedian with a little practice. It was announced that equality as good a programme had been prepared for the next evening, and with unfelgued regrets that I could not attend, I went back to my hotel, a "wiser" but not a "sadder man." more convinced than ever of the folly of judging from appearances. Those Marion people have spirit, taste and talent, though they certainly do not show it in building their houses and paving their streets.

—A writer who makes feminine vanities his theme says: "The Chinese ladies are as much the slaves of fashion as Western ladies. They are always studying attitudes and effects before their mirrors for hours at a time, just like eurs, and they bandage their feet for the same reason that our girls cramp theirs, and tighten their waists in order to produce elegance and gentility of form. (?) In fact, small feet mean style and beauty in China, and it would be hard to find the American girl who would not walk on her head if that was necessary to style among us." style among us."

—It is stated that, since Mile. Christine Nilsson was married, the demand for "Christine Nilsson watches" in Paris, has largely fallen off, and this fact is quoted in support of the vulgar notion that an unmarried woman is, te the populace, more attractive than a married one, as an artist.

We give below a brief extract from a report of the Lehigh County Medical Society, as published in the Transactions of the Medical Society of Pennsylvanis, June, 1888:

"Internally, I give quinine and iron and a good nourishing diet. Still I found great trouble in keeping up healthy granulations; they would become sluggish. I tried a number of alteratives, as iodide of potassium and lime. Still the case progressed very slowly, until my attention was attracted to an article in the Medical and Surgical Reporter, On Iodide and Iron.' I at once concluded to give this remedy a fair trial. I discontinued all other constitutional treatment, and gave three pills three times a day, manufactured KING STREET LOT OF LAND.

tinned all other constitutional treatment, and gave three pills three times a day, manufactured by W. R. Warner & Co., of Philadelphia. I soon had the satisfaction of seeing a rapid improvement. The pain at once left her limb, with which she had suifered continually; the granulations became more healthy and more abundant, and in now have the satisfaction of seeing my patient engaging in all her bousehold duties. Not a vestige of the disease is to be seen. The patient is enjoying perfect health, is active and lively.

"Since, I have treated two other cases, one of three and one of four years' standing, with the same good result. I feel convinced of the emcacy of the remedy."
